INTERESTING LETTER FROM FRANKFORT.

Fourteen More Days and This Session of the Legislature will Pass into History.

SENATE KILLS BOND ISSUE—HOUSE PASSES COUNTY UNIT BILL.

Dear Calmes:—

I shall begin by saying in answer to some of your readers who are taking me to task about having no letter last week for the Record-Press, that it was not my fault, as it was mailed promptly and should have arrived on time.

I was indeed so pained to hear of the death of Bob Flanary. He was one of my most treasured friends, faithful, honest and true. May God bind up the bleeding hearts of his bereaved loved ones and illumine this their darkest hour with the beneficent rays of good cheer and consolation in the loss of husband and father.

Fourteen more days and this session of the legislature will pass into history, and I can not at this writing, judge what the verdict of the people must be; because not enough legislation has been actually done to give us a starting point for a prophecy. The interdenominational bill has passed both houses. It gives the jury only power to pass on guilt or innocence and the court names the penalty.

The Parole Bill, which the Senate sent over struck a "snag" in the House, it may be passed later if amended properly.

Governor Willson sent in another long winded message:—Among the things he recommended were:—a bigger and better state militia; a $500,000.00 bond issue; to keep the present school law and add more to it; Good roads laws, and more appropriations for the capital.

The Senate killed the $500,000.00 bond issue bill very promptly; chopped the good road bill all to pieces, and as to "more soldiers and better soldiers" it will never give a cent; but in a report of its investigating committee known as Committee on Military made these very grave charges against the governor for his conduct of the military department:—

That he violated the constitution and laws in many instances by sending the State Militia to various counties without request from the civil authorities; also violated the constitution and laws in refusing to place the militia when ordered out, under the control of the civil authorities, and in assuming command of them as commander-in-chief; that a large amount of money—about $400,000.00—had been extravagantly expended on the active service of the militia, without any practical benefit, and the only result, a deficit in the State Treasury just about that size. They cited one instance of extravagance, the item of about $11,000.00 dollars paid for horse hire and forage to a livery firm in Hopkinsville, during five months.

There will be no bond issue authorized this session, nor will the tax rate be raised.

The house has offered through its Rules Committee, of which I have the honor to be a member, the only solution that seems probable at this session towards meeting the deficit in the State's strong box. The measure has passed the House already. It makes treasury warrants bear interest at 5 per cent. They have a decided advantage over bonds in relation to the taxpayers. The warrants do not begin to draw interest until presented for payment and are returned to the owner endorsed "no funds." The Treasurer has the authority to retire them, or call them in any time he has as much as $50,000.00 for that purpose. They may be paid by him at any time, as current warrants are paid, but the holders must present them for payment when the Treasurer advertizes that he has the amount as above stated, on hand for that purpose, or they cease to draw interest. This arrangement will enable us not only to live, but pay our debt as well, and not have long time bonds which we could not retire at pleasure, as we can the warrants. It will be a check to extravagance and force the party in power to advertise its obligations.

The first thing the Committee on Rules did was to order the County Unit Bill on passage in the House. It went through sixty-three to twenty-eight. The decks are now clear and we expect to accomplish much inside of the next two weeks as Rules Committee will have charge of all measures and put such as it see fit on their passage in the House. But the Unit Bill will now go to the Senate to cause trouble, and more broken pledges we fear.

We hope to be able to report next week that we have succeeded in passing through the House a measure that will help the Schools of Crittenden and Livingston counties. Messrs. Pirtle, Porter and Littell have given me much assistance in the preparation of the bill, and but for the delay on the Unit Bill would have been here before the Senate long ago.

I have devoted a great deal of labor and no little worry to this question. Because it is not a matter of what I would do, but what I can do under the many adverse circumstances, to say nothing of the delay caused by the temperance question.

I take this method of saying to my many friends who advocated this measure or that, that I have refrained from introducing bills—except one for the Dycusburg Public School—only "by request" when handed me already prepared, because I knew that it would be useless to pour in more bill, when hundreds already in will never be considered.

Yours to Serve,
MARION F. POGUE.

CARD OF THANKS.

We want to thank the people of Marion for their kindness to us during the sickness and death of our little girl.

Respectfully,

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Patterson.

Senator P. S. Maxwell left Tuesday to look after his interests in Ardmore, Okla.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Simpson of Hearnins store neighborhood, were in Marion, trading Tuesday.

W. D. McCarthy of Blackford, was in Marion several days this week.

W. H. McCollum, marshal at Kuttawa, came over Thursday with Jno Tinsley to attend the beside of A. B. Tinsley, who has been critically ill for sometime.

ROBERT L. FLANARY PASSES TO HIS REWARD.

Death Robbed Our City of One of Its Best Loved and Most Highly Honored Citizens.

WAS SICK BUT A FEW DAYS.

When the sad news spread over our city on last Thursday morning, Feb. 24, that Bob Flanary was dying, incredulity was stamped on every face but when the report gained strength and at 9:30 the news was carried swiftly over the town that his spirit had took its flight to the life beyond, a gloom seemed to settle over the town as dark as night. But a week before his death he went home complaining of what was supposed to be la grippe subsequently developing into pneumonia of the very worst type, but so sudden was the attack that his best friends hardly knew he was sick.

Bob Flanary was one of the best and biggest hearted men in all the proud old county of Crittenden and the beautiful tribute at the church and the grave by the people, the churches and the Masonic and Pythian lodges was the best evidence of the high esteem in which he was held.

The funeral service took place at the Baptist church Saturday at one o'clock conducted by his pastor, Rev. M. E. Miller, assisted by Rev. J. B. Adams of the Methodist church. The capacity of the large new edifice of which he was so proud and in which his friends were so accustomed to see him as usher, was tested as never before with hundreds of friends deep in heartfelt sorrow. He was a man loved by everybody and in return had a warm place in his big heart for everybody. The fact that the Republicans joined forces with the Democrats in electing him circuit court clerk on the Democratic ticket last November is the best evidence of his universal popularity. He had a care for every one and loved his family as only the best men can.

He was 44 years old and had been a member of the Baptist church since his early boyhood. He was also highly recognized as a bright, indispensable member of the Masonic and Pythian lodges, holding the office of Vice Chancellor in the latter at the time of his death. Was also Master of Zion Hill Masonic Lodge, Honors were evenly divided by the lodges in the selection of pall bearers as follows: Hon. J. W. Bule, G. M. Crider, and Guy Lamb, of the Pythians and Forrest Heath, James Daughtrey and W. B. Wilborn of the Masonic lodge.

The tribute paid his memory by Rev. M. E. Miller, a man who had known him all his life, was the very highest tribute one man could possibly pay another. The floral offerings by his friends and his lodges, were numerous and beautiful. The greatest number of people ever attending a funeral in Marion were in evidence at the church and on the sad march to the grave, giving appropriate place for Davids words of sorrow over the death of Abner "Know ye not, that there is a prince and a great man fallen this day in Israel."

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Castle Hall, Blackwell Lodge No. 57,
N. of P., February 25th.

Whereas, death has invaded our ranks and taken from us our brother, our worthy and faithful Vice Chancellor, Robert L. Flanary, who departed this life on the 24th day February 1910, therefore be it, RESOLVED,

First—That in the death of Brother Flanary this lodge has lost a noble and valiant Knight, a faithful, loving and efficient officer, who was ever wise and in counsel and kind in judgment. Second—That his wife has lost a true and devoted husband, and his child a kind, indulgent and affectionate father.

Third—That the Vice Chancellor's station be draped for a period of thirty days as a mark of respect for the departed Knight who so faithfully performed every duty devolving upon that office.

Fourth—That the citizens of Crittenden County have lost a capable and painstaking officer and public servant, whose greatest pleasure was in the thought of "duty well done," and in doing unto others as he would have them do unto him.

Fifth—that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our records, a copy sent to the bereaved family, to the Kentucky Pythian, and one to The Crittenden Record Press.

Committee A. C. MOORE,
H. A. HAYNES,
JNO. P. KING.

HEBORN.

News of the death of R. L. Flanary came as a shock to the people of this community. Mr. Flanary was born in neighborhood and lived here until a few years ago when he moved to Marion. He was a friend to all and in return received the love of everyone. He was always the same cheerful "Bob," always had a kindly greeting and a friendly word for all. Those that attended the funeral from this place were: G. C. Wathen, L. J. Daughtrey, Jerry Daughtrey, E. N. Cook, D. B. Barger, Ray Daughtrey, D. J. Green, W. J. Belt, Hayes Easley and A. Watson. The community extends its heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family.

H. E. Wathen was in Marion Tuesday.
Luther Hardin of Irena neighborhood visited Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Byarley Saturday and Sunday.

F. E. Watson was in Marion last week.

Chas. E. Thomas closes his spring school at Hebron Friday.

Clifton and Lamer Threlkeld of Carrsville, visited E. T. Franklin and family a few days last week.

Miss Minnie Paris who has been ill for several days is improving.

Misses Ada and Rittie Belt visited at Tom Belt Saturday and Sunday.

Frank Campbell of Carrsville, spent part of last week with his sister, Mrs. Jesse Alvis.

Eugene Threlkeld spent Friday night with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Daughtrey.

Shellie Franklin was in Marion Sunday.

Bob Barnes of Missouri, was in this section last week.

HON. MARION F. POGUE FOR NEXT SPEAKER

Of the House—His Many Friends in Crittenden and Livingston Counties and From

ALL PARTS OF THE STATE ARE BOOSTING HIM.

Many friends of our splendid representative are boosting him for Speaker of the next house. Under the present understanding and long established custom it is Livingston County's time next year to send the representative, but the Committee of our should meet at once and amend that very foolish rule by giving to each county the representative two terms in succession, so as to carry out the good old democratic idea of giving an acceptable officer an indorsement.

One term only, in the legislature does not give a man a chance to do anything and there is no use to try, to become Speaker of the House by forming alliances and ties at this term for the next term, because he already knows that under the present very impractical custom, he cannot go back to the next session. There is no chance for a man to tell whether his course has been acceptable to the people or not, as he is prohibited from asking an indorsement, however meritorious his conduct may have been.

Another instance of the impractical method is that of Lyon and Marshall counties, who practice the same rule. These two counties now have a splendid representative in the Hon. John McWalters, of Marshall, who is a man of ability; capable and honest, but like our own, he can not go back next year. About the time a man as representative becomes qualified and begins to learn how things are accomplished ed the session adjourns and he must step down and out.

We suggest a convention of our County Committee and amend the unbusiness like rule.

Crittenden's Committee would have no kick coming and would meet no doubt and ratify the action of our Committee in the premises. Everything would thus be satisfactory, on a business bases and harmonious.—Livingston Banner.

HON. MARION F. POGUE'S LETTER FROM FRANKFORT

Delayed from Last Week--But will be of Interest to Our Many Readers--They will Appreciate Having a Man to Represent them
They can Depend on to do the Right Thing.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 21, 10.
Friend Calmes:--

Still we move slowly through the legislative orbit, progressing only in one direction i. e. killing of time. Two thirds of the session gone and only one measure has yet reached the governor. We open up next week with two sessions per day, and then members who have voted on every roll call to adjourn will fall over other members to get their bills to a vote.

The circuit judges got their little increase of $1200 per year through, unless the governor objects. It would be useless for him to waste time and paper in vetoing it, because they have a force so well disciplined that they would charge right up the cannon's mouth, and a veto would be only a breakfast spell. It is only a matter of one hundred and forty thousand dollar extra for the tax payer to dig up in the next six years. The constitution is no longer in the way, or there is a way around it, for surely salaries are raised during the term of office.

The bill to pension ex-confederates was passed by the House by a unanimous vote. It gives them or their widows $10 per month.

The Senate passed Bill 49 the first of the good roads bills. The bill to abolish the office of the State Auditor's agent also passed that body. The action of the House is awaited with much interest as this is a most important measure. I heard some of the discussion in the senate, and feel that it would be a grievous mistake to abolish the place. Many millions of dollars have been turned into the treasury by them officials, that otherwise would have remained hidden from the assessors. To sweep away this safe guard entirely would mean the yearly hiding of millions of taxable wealth, and inevitably, tangible property would suffer a corresponding raise in tax rate.

The County Unit Bill bobbed up in both Houses again this week only to be sent back deep under the pile of bills to sleep until spring perhaps.

It is indeed unfortunate that this measure was not met at the beginning of the session in a business like way and settled on its merits. But instead, most every thing has been held up with it, until we have practically done nothing so far. The tax payers will some day step in and settle it to suit themselves, by electing Representatives and Senators with an eye single to disposing of it in short order, or we will have a governor perhaps, who will call a special session to consider this one subject by itself, so that when the regular term comes on there will be nothing in the way.

The whiskey interests must sooner or later be divorced from politics and government, in both state and nation. This trust grows more arrogant year by year forcing its agent into the very assembly halls making cringing cowards, traitor and reputed bribe takers out of men once called honorable. It is sickening; it is deplorable; and will not always be endured. Year by year this evil adds to Kentucky's shame. The harder we struggle to get out the deeper we get in, and the worn spectacle we are bound to present to the world of a great state, unable through its law makers to make any progress with the State's business, because a few men fear their business might suffer. They are suspicious of everybody and everything it seems; they are inviting their own destruction, in the end, for some day the pent up wrath of an outraged people will roll forth like Vesuvius and destroy them like so much chaff.

The State Farmers Club will meet here next week, and will bring many prominent farmers to the capital.

AS OTHERS SEE OUR WORTHY REPRESENTATIVE

Clipping From the Dixon Journal and Cadiz Record Praising Hon. Marion F. Pogue and Other Representatives.

This Judicial and Senatorial district has something to be proud of in their representatives in both houses of the present General Assembly. They can look with pride at Forrest Porter, Jeff Watkins, George Wilson, Ben Niles, Marion Pogue, Bob Aikin, as they stand as a "stone wall" for the extension of the County Unit bill. Regardless of their own personal feelings and we have no right to say that any of them are personally against the bill, they are doing what they think their constituents want, as they agreed to do by the act of accepting the positions they hold. And there is Josh Catlett, who before the election said in a signed statement, "In reference to the question as to my attitude toward the County Unit Bill, if elected to people of this portion of the Commonwealth. We truly hope that when the above named have returned to their respective homes they, ALL OF THEM, without a single exception, will be in shape to receive the welcome plaudit, WELL DONE THOU GOOD AND FAITHFUL SERVANTS. We have no fears but that a great majority of them will be in shape to hear this with joy and gladness, but we would be so glad to know that there would not be a single exception.

I am very much pleased with every member of the House from the First District. There is not a scrub among them. Pogue, of Crittenden is one of the leaders. Akin is a fine fellow and the first name called on every vote, a very difficult place. He has a bill for bidding tipping that is pleasing the traveling public immensely. Also the best dog bill. Caldwell should be proud of him. Henry Chun, of Calloway, is the man from Missouri. He wont cast a vote till they show him, and if he has the least doubt about it, he votes no. John McWaters is like a good, old work horse, level headed, steady and reliable. Brooks, of Graves, is a young man, full of life and wide awake. Graves made no mistake in sending him back this time. George Reed is a fine man and attends strictly to business. Graves of Paducah, is a fine debator. Cadiz Record.

JUDGE ROCHESTER APPOINTED CIRCUIT CLERK.

Judge Gordon Sees In Him The Man to Fill a Good Mans Unexpired Term.

The office of the circuit clerk having been made vacant by the death of Robt. L. Flanary, elected to the office last November and realizing the justness of its being filled by a Democrat, complimentary to the high character and high standing of the deceased, by common consent, Judge Jno. F. Gordon was requested to appoint Judge J. G. Rochester, which he did without the least hesitancy. And as Mr. Flanary had been elected as a Democrat where the Republican majority is conceded to be at least four hundred in Crittenden county, the office was made a Democratic one by the aid of his good Republican friends and complimentary to them and in justice to their high sense of right, they have entered no remonstrance and to all appearances are as well pleased with the appointment as we are. What a pleasure to know that there is this unanimity of principal. The tender chord that touched and drew the hearts of the people to a man as big hearted and pure as Bob Flanary, could not have more highly complimented him than by common consent recognizing the fact that his successor should be a true, whole-souled, big hearted, clean Democrat. The appointment will be until the November election in 1911, when the office will be declared elective.

REST MADE EASY

There Will Be Less Sleeplessness When Marion People Learn This.

Can't rest at night with a bad back, A lame, a weak or an aching one. Doan's Kidney Pills are for bad backs.

They cure every form of kidney ills. From common backache to diabetes. They are endorsed by Marion people. W. I. Tubor, Marion, Ky., says: "I suffered for ten years from kidney trouble. There were severe pains in the small of my back, I was unable to sleep well and arose in the morning, feeling lame and sore. I was always tired, languid and nervous, headaches were common and I also suffer from dizzy spells. My kidneys were disordered and the secretions from these organs passed too frequently. It was finally my good fortune to hear of Doan's Kidney Pills and I procured a box at Haynes & Taylor's Drug Store. I used them and in three weeks was greatly relieved. Thus encouraged, I continued taking this remedy and the contents of one box effected a complete cure. I recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to anyone suffering from kidney complaint."

Fortune Telling

Does not take into consideration the one essential to woman's happiness--womanly health. The woman who neglects her health is neglecting the very foundation of all good fortune. For without health love loses its lustre and gold is but dross. Womanly health when lost or impaired may generally be regained by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

This Prescription has, for over 40 years, been curing delicate, weak, pain-wracked women, by the hundreds of thousands and this too in the privacy of their homes without their having to submit to indelicate questionings and offensively repugnant examinations.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All correspondence held as sacredly confidential. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, R. V. Pierce, M. D., President, Buffalo, N. Y. Dr. PIERCE'S GREAT FAMILY DOCTOR BOOK, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, newly revised up-to-date edition--1000 pages, answers in plain English hosts of delicate questions which every woman, single or married, ought to know about. Sent free, in plain wrapper to any address on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to cover mailing only, or in cloth binding for 31 stamps.

Flows with sadder pulses now,
And we miss thy well known foot-falls
And the smile upon thy brow.

Thou hast left us--Oh, the sadness,
Dwelling in these simple words,
Striking out the light of gladness,
Muffling all the spirit chords.

Thou hast left us, Heaven seems nearer,
That thy feet have trod it's shore,
And the earth is darker, drearier,
That we see thy face no more.

Thou hast left us but not forever,
Pangs of parting may not be,
Love's strong bands are sundered rearer.

In the land beyond death's sea.

THE LADIES' FAVORITE

WHEREVER PARISIAN SAGE IS KNOWN
IT HAS THE CALL.

Parsian Sage, that most efficient of all hair restorers, is a very delightful and refreshing hair dressing. Besides possessing these qualities it will positively make any woman's hair soft, luxuriant and attractive. Haynes & Taylor sell it for 50 cents a large bottle and will return your money if it does not cure dandruff, falling hair and itching scalp in two weeks.

"I had given up hopes of ever being cured of dandruff, when I purchased a bottle of Parsian Sage. It has entirely removed the dandruff and has started a growth of new hair, and all this after having been troubled 14 years. I cheerfully recommend Parsian Sage." Mrs. Elizabeth Anderson, Mechanicsburg, Pa.

LAST NOTICE FOR TAXES.

The name of every taxpayer of Crittenden county, who has not paid his taxes by Saturday, February 26, 1910, will go on the delinquent list and be published.

DANDRUFF EASILY CURED.

In fact Haynes & Taylor the druggists, has a certain hair restorer called Parsian Sage which cost only 50 cents a large bottle that is guaranteed to cure dandruff in two weeks or money back.

Parsian Sage is the discovery of an eminent student, scientist and specialist, and is made in this country only by the Gironx Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Parsian Sage is a most pleasant, dandy perfume hair dressing, and besides curing dandruff, your druggist will return your money if it fails to stop falling hair or itching of the scalp.

It will make hair grow, and women who desire soft, beautiful and luxuriant hair can have it in two weeks by using this famous, quick acting preparation. It is not sticky or greasy.

The MOLER BARBER COLLEGE of Louisville, Ky., wants men to learn the barber trade. They offer splendid inducements and a short term completes. They mail free a beautiful catalogue and ask all our readers to send for it.

The last heavy snow demonstrated the fact that Marion has some expert snow shovelers.

Last Friday morning the early risers claim the mercury falling to four degrees below zero.

Last week the people of Kentucky were visited by cold snaps,
and the committee on Religion and Morals at Frankfort by "hot snaps."

A town full of Saloons has a jail full of criminals, while jail doors in the town without the saloon, is standing wide open.
What better evidence of the need abolishing the saloon do we need?

The late blizzard was perhaps for the benefit of the "traitors" in the legislature a foretaste of the two extremes, the "hot time will come later.

If the committee on Religion and Morals at Frankfort were to sing:
"What would you give, what would you give,
People now tell us what price would we bring."
The answer would be, "Not a tural dad busted out in Crittenden."

Sergeant James C. Barnes of First Infantry U. S. A., is here this week instructing our company and in an interview gives out the fact that our boys are well up on military matters and that he is pleased with their spirit and desire to be advanced.

Two prominent ministers of Marion were talking in our presence Monday about an appeal made on them for an expression of their views to our Senator
when one of them said with emphasis: "How can we appeal to our Senator when we have no Senator." The Lord help us!
Aint that the truth?

The Congressional Committee met at Paducah last Thursday for the purpose of nominating a man for Congress, and as there was no opposition to the present incumbent Hon. Ollie M. James, he, for the fifth time, was made the standard bearer of Democracy of the proud old First, and in declaring the vote unanimous they showed to have felt that they reconized in Mr. James, a man whom the whole nation in proud to honor.

Without the saloon the jailers are but poorly remunerated and therefore need the enactment of new laws by our legislature or the office will go begging.

In recognition of Easter on the Thursday before the Record-
Press will go to its many readers in beautiful Easter attire and containing twelve or more pages.
The added number of pages will be given on account of the demand for advertising space by our good merchants and not wanting to send the paper to them all advertisements, we have enlarged it to this extent. Be sure you get a copy as there will be many things in both of these number that you should not fail to see.

Every dollar the people are paying us on subscription we are putting into new type which is making a marked improvement in our papers. Now on the 17th and 24th we are going to print a 12 page paper, full of news and advertisement as well. If you do not take the Record-Press, do so at once and have a hand in helping us to build up the paper.
Realizing that this is the only paper in the county, we want to make it a good one, and to do this we need your help. Give it to us and we shall do our best to make you the best paper in the State.

Since the Farmers Union now numbers above one thousand in this county and rapidly growing in numbers and strength every day, we hope this suggestion from us would not be amiss to hold strictly to the principles of their organization, striving to keep down dissension and strife, to guard against the desire for membership to the extent that bad men are admitted and after electing men to positions of leadership and trust, back them up with all force and power in you until they have had time to demonstrate their ability and worth.
A rose can not be planted and expected to bloom in a single night. You may expect your share of trouble. You had it before the organization was born and it is not reasonable to expect to lie on a bed of roses simply because you are a member of the Farmers Union. The thing to do is when reverses strike you and enemies are using the time in making inroads in your order to stand as a stone wall, banishing everything but faith in God and the ultimate success of your great organization and the God of right will soon win you the victory. Surely this organization has stood the test, a terrible one, and with all, it has grown and prospered until today its banner is triumphantly waving over every State of the South.

You have a good organization
and it behooves you to stick to it.
If an enemy has sown tares
and you are compelled to "weed out," do it fearlessly, with never a thought of abandoning the field. If you did some other man would prepare the soil and start afresh. Elect good men to fill your most important positions and after having the confidence in them to elect them, have the courage to stand by them. You may expect reverses and sometimes, an off year but with confidence and courage and your duty well performed will win you the victory and make you RULERS OF ALL THE EARTH AT LAST.

We are in receipt of so many letters this week without any signature that we are compelled to notify all of our valued correspondents to sign their true name for our protection and benefit. This is held sacred by us. And too, please do not try to get off anything funny about a fellow "going to see his girl" as both may become angry and the blame at last fall on us.
Just give all the news, the births deaths, marriages, improvements, fires, stock and sale of stock. Thus you please the people when on the other hand
you are finally sure to offend some one some time. We like all of our correspondents, but shall be compelled to refuse publishing their letters unless their names are affixed to them. Then too we have some letters this week in which the writers have been careless in spelling the proper names plainly which if published would likely offend
some one, as it is not pleasant for one to see his or her name handled so carelessly. Please do as we ask and there will be no risk. We say this in all kindness.

HOW GOOD NEWS SPREADS.

"I am 70 years old and travel most of the time," writes B. F. Tolson, of Elizabethtown, Ky. "Everywhere I go I recommend Electric Bitters, because I owe my excellent health and vitality to them. They effect a cure every time." They never fail to tone the stomach, regulate the kidneys and bowels, stimulate the liver, invigorate the nerves and purify the blood. They work wonders for weak, run-down men and women, restoring strength, vigor and health that's a daily joy. Try them. Only 50 cents. Satisfaction is positively guaranteed by Jas. H. Orme and Haynes and Tayloa.

Administrtor's Notice.

All parties having claims against the estate of J. B. C. McMeaen, will present same to me properly proven by March first or they will be forever arrested. I will be at my home about two and one-half miles north of Marion near Harrison Trussell.

CRUSHED TO DEATH BY LOCOMOTIVE.

Brought Back to His Old Home For Interment By Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

E. McWhirter met death at Wolf Lake, Ill., in a fearful manner on the 23rd, falling under his engine while running. He was a Crittenden county boy and highly respected by all who knew him. He was about 35 years old and for several years had resided with his wife and children at Paducah. He was highly respected by his associates and considered by the railroad people a trusty engineer.

The remains were brought here by the Railway Trainmens organization Friday for interment. The six constituting h's pall-bearers were: L. W. Ray, St. Louis; T. E. Corcoran, L. B.
Cooper, James Donahor, L.
Snyder and J. E. George of Paducah, Ky. He leaves a wife and four children.

Deceased married Miss Corda Conyer of New Salem, one of the most popular young women of her neighborhood. The young mother and her four children have the sympathy of a host of friends in this their sad bereavment.

THE COLDS THAT HANG ON.

Are readily cured by Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey. It relieves the cold and stops the cough. There is only one genuine. a l.

A DEAD STOMACH, OF WHAT USE IS IT?

Thousands? Yes hundreds of thousands of people throughout America are taking the slow death treatment daily.
They are murdering their own stomach, the best friend they have, and in their sublime ignorance they think they are putting aside the laws of nature.
This is no sensational statement; it is a startling fact, the truth of which any honorable physician will not deny.

These thousands of people are swallowing daily huge quantities of pepsin and other strong digesters, made especially to digest the food in the stomach without any aid at all from the digestive membrane of the stomach.

Mi-o-na stomach tablets relieve distressed stomach in five minutes; they do more. Taken regular for a few weeks they build up the run down stomach and make it strong enough to digest its own food. Then indigestion, belching, sour stomach and headache
will go.

Mi-o-na stomach tablets are sold by druggists everywhere and by Haynes & Taylor who guarantees them. 50 cents a box.
Booth's Pills cure constipation. 25 cents.

WANTED.

An agent in this section to handle
our sick, accident and life insurance certificates on a very liberal renewal contract. Write at once, Kentucky State Manager, 1030-1041 Drexel
Building, Philadelphia, Penn.

Free Dyspepsia
Sample

Sufferers from indigestion are waking up to the fact that pepper-min, lozenges, charcoal and "dyspepsia cures" are only makeshifts in the cure of so troublesome a complaint as chronic indigestion. What is required is something that will not only relieve but which will tone and train the digestive apparatus to again do its work normally,
and this these simple remedies cannot do.

There is something more to the cure of indigestion than sweetening the breath, and yet a remedy that only contains digestive ingredients will not cure permanently, as the basis of indigestion is poor bowel circulation, and that requires a scientific laxative. We know of no remedy that combines these requirements better than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which has been sold for a quarter of a century.
Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a laxative tonic, a scientific blending of natural ingredients for the cure of constipation, indigestion, liver trouble, sour stomach, sick headache and similar complaints. Its ingredients will so strengthen and tone the stomach and bowel muscles that they will again do their work naturally, and when that has been accomplished your trouble is over. Fannie Stuart, Staunton, Va., was a long-time sufferer, as was O. Tuck, Blackburn, Mo., and they both found their cure with this remedy. They became convinced that pills and tablets, salts, "dyspepsia cures," etc., were at best only temporary reliefs. They first accepted Dr. Caldwell's offer of a free sample bottle, which he willingly sends to anyone who forwards name and address. Later, having convinced themselves through the free sample, they bought Syrup Pepsin of their druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle.
Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail.
For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R. 500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

the incident of which you were speaking, but also as to"— He paused.

Brand helped the would be briber to complete his sentence.

"You mean your secret interview last night with Dupuy and the attorney for the Lansing?"

The visitor raised his hand warningly at Brand's loud tones, as though to counsel caution.

"Yes, yes."

"Lansing Iron corporation?" continued Brand, bending close to the telephone.

"Yes. Will this sum, paid in hand, induce you to forget—ah, not only that incident, but also various other matters to which the Advance seems to have taken exception in the past?"

Brand sank back in his chair.

"You mean you want us to let up on you at around?"

"Precisely."

"Then that's understood."

"You will make a memorandum for me in writing to that effect—a receipt, so to speak?"

He pushed a pad toward the managing editor.

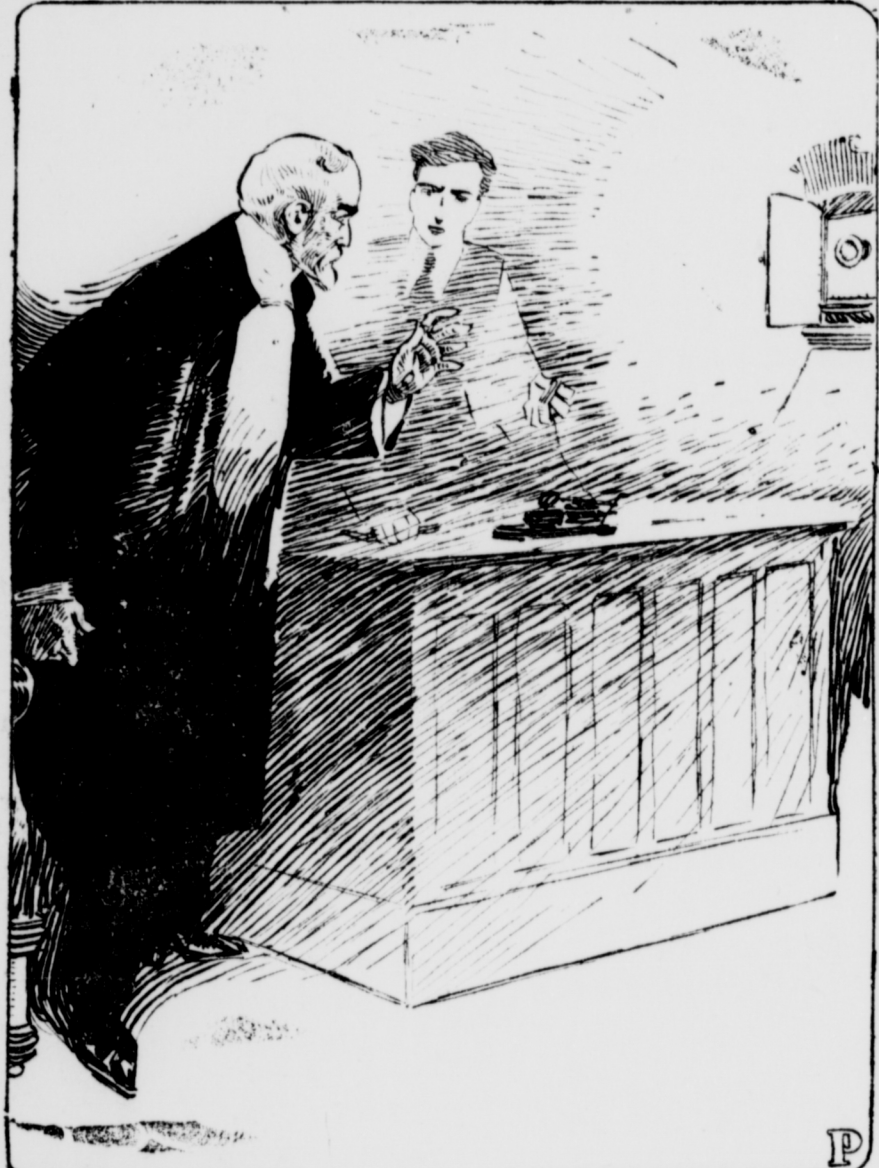

"All right—certainly," agreed Brand, picking up a pen.

The judge began to congratulate himself on the ease with which he was handling the young man.

"This is—ah, more businesslike," he said.

But Brand gave him another shock when he said:

"Yes; I'll draw it up in duplicate. Each of us will keep a copy—signed."

"IT IS A PICTURE OF YOU IN STRIPES, JUDGE BARTELMY."

"Ah-ha-ha!" The jurist leaned back and laughed. "You're a clever fellow, Brand. Well, well; you will be served!" He pushed the pad away.

Brand glanced at the clock fixed in the wall opposite him.

"It's getting late, Judge," he warned.

Bartelmy reached into the inside pocket of his evening dress coat and extracted an oblong package. Slipping off a rubber band that encircled it, he unwrapped the yellow paper and laid before him on the managing editor's desk a neat stack of crisp new bank bills, all of the $500 denomination.

Bartelmy started to count the money, but he desisted and pushed the bills over toward Brand.

"Count it," he said.

"You count it."

The judge leaned forward and began the task. His head was within four or five inches of the mountpiece of the typewriter. He placed up the bills one at a time, and as he counted them, he told them in another pile.

"Five hundred," he said—"one thousand, fifteen hundred, twenty-five hundred, three thousand, thirty-five hundred, forty-five—five thousand. There is half of it," he remarked.

"Yes; that's $5,000," assented Brand.

"Six thousand," said the judge, continuing with his task "seven thousand, seventy-five hundred, eight thousand."

"Eight thousand dollars," agreed Brand.

"Nine thousand," counted the judge.

"Nine thousand dollars," said Brand.

"Ten thousand dollars," the judge counted.

"Is that correct?" he queried of the editor.

"Ten thousand dollars, correct," was the reply. "That will wipe the slate clean between us."

Brand held out his hand to take the money.

The judge picked up the pile of bills, compressed them with his hands and extended the money across the desk.

"Take it, Brand," he said.

As the false judge said these words and stood with the money in his hands and held it out to the editor a loud explosion thrilled every nerve fiber in his body. A blinding flash of light filled the room, and the air was thick with the smoke of the powder used by photographers in making flash pictures.

A pang of terror shot through the craven heart of the would be briber. He started back in his alarm, his eyes almost blinded by the unexpected flood of light that had subsided as quickly as it had come.

"My God! What is that?" he cried, rubbing the back of one of his hands across his eyes.

Wheeler Brand, who had risen in his place at his desk when the judge had finished counting the money, set his face into hard, unyielding lines as the judge besought him to speak, to explain. He had won. He had completely at his mercy this cold, crafty betrayer of the public trust he had sworn to hold sacred. And it was with unmistakable triumph in his voice that he gave the reply that was to be imprinted on the brain of the false judge as long as he was to live—a reply that would haunt him while awake and awake him when he slept:

"It is a picture of you in stripes, Judge Bartelmy," he announced.

The judge, realizing that he had been tricked—that he had been photographed in the very act of handing bribe money to the managing editor of the Advance—displayed rare presence of mind for a man whose complete social and professional ruin had become suddenly imminent. He rushed across the room at the point where the flash occurred, hoping to obtain hold of the camera and destroy the plate. Owing to the pall of smoke he had been unable to see just in what manner the camera had been arranged. But when he reached the side of the room there was no camera to be seen, only a round hole extending through the partition into the next room and from which the camera had been re-spread his arms on his desk and bowed his head between them until his cheek rested on the cool polished surface.

"Judith, Judith!" he sobbed, and his body shook uncontrolledly as he wept for the girl he loved.

CHAPTER XIII.

MIDNIGHT in the rooms of a leading daily paper in a big city is not a time when peaceful slumber is in order for those who are concerned in the business of producing the paper. It is the time when trained brains and trained hands are exerted to the extreme limit of their capacity to get the very latest news into shape, into type, into the press, into the mail wagons and "on the street."

And it is in the composing room where the brand of the battle is borne in the final hours in which is completed the record of a world's doings and undosings for a day. Masses of "copy" swirl upward in the tubes or are carried in by boys from the city editorial room. The typesetting machines click, click, clicking in unceasing monotony, and the proofreaders scan columns of "green proofs" with a rapidity, when under pressure, that would amaze the uninitiated observer. The "makeup" men cluster around the cumbersome tables or "stones" on which the forms are made up, lifting in the metal lines of type here, making corrections or shifting cuts there and locking the forms to be shunted into the stereotype room, where the paper matrices will be made. When the matrix is placed in the casting box the molten stereotype metal is poured in, and within a very few minutes the cylindrical plates, hardened quickly in the casting box by the pouring of cold water into the jacket, are locked on the cylinders of the gigantic duodecuple press and ready to whirl off over 100 copies of a paper per second, all printed, pasted, folded and counted.

Midnight in the offices of the Advance on the night that Judge Bartelmy's photograph was taken with $10,000 of bribe money in his hands found the staff of the paper in all departments working as probably they had never worked before, except on election night. The story required considerable time for preparation. The notes of Howard and Jeff, the two reporters who recorded the conversation of Brand and Bartelmy, had to be translated from shorthand into English. Then an introduction, and the art department had to break all previous records in turning out a cut made from the photograph resulting from the flashlight.

In the composing room men were working like galley slaves to get the great Bartelmy exposure story into type and into the forms. The composing room in the Advance building was a "double-decker"—i. e., a second story had been built in the rear part of the room to accommodate the proofreaders. This second story was really but a half story, extending out over a portion of the composing room, and the walls were partitions, the lower half of wood and the upper half of glass windows.

On the lower floor the linotype machines were set in rows. A steam table loomed on one side. On another table, an ironbound one, rested the galley containing matter for the night's edition of the paper. At the extreme left of the room a wooden partition shut off the small office that the managing editor used at night when he supervised the makeup proceedings. A door opened into this small room from the outer hall, close to a door opening from the hall into the composing room itself. At the opposite end of the compartment a door opened into the composing room. In his small enclosure Brand, the managing editor, had a desk and a telephone. Adjoining the partition, which shut him off from the composing room and on the outside of it, was a desk used by the copy cutters, who cut the pages of manuscript after they had been pasted together into "takes." A take is one of the sections into which a story is cut, so that several compositors can work on different parts of the same story simultaneously, resulting in the saving of considerable time in setting type.

The typesetting machines clicked off rapidly the words, sentences and paragraphs of the Bartelmy "beat" and the other stories which had to be crowded into the "night edition." Brand was in his little room at the right, reading the proof of the introduction of the account of the accusation of the United States judge, which introduction he had chosen to write himself. McHenry, the deposed managing editor and now Brand's assistant, was at the forms with the makeup men.

A boy rushed in with a cut for McHenry. The boy came spluttering at it and waved the boy to one side.

"Why do they send us this kind of stuff when we've got a live one?" he said disgustedly.

Downs came in from the city room.

"That Clinton street fire is getting better every minute," he said to McHenry. "We ought to have at least four columns on it."

McHenry glared at the speaker.

"Are you crazy, man?" he exclaimed. "Do you think we use rubber type? You'll have to keep it in three."

Downs was dissatisfied.

"All right. This story is going to the d—l," he answered, shaking his head negatively. He went out of the composing room.

McHenry went over to one of the makeup stones.

"Where are the cuts for the Chicago and Bryan jump heads? I can't find them anywhere," he asked.

"Here they are," answered one of the makeup men.

"All right. They go there," he pointed to a space in one of the forms as a boy handed him another cut. McHenry held it up to the light and hurried into Brand's office with it. He laid it promptly on the managing editor's desk.

"That's a wonder, Mac!" pronounced Brand.

McHenry agreed.

"Yes; you can almost count the money in old Bartelmy's hand!" he exclaimed, and he peered closely once more at the metal slab.

Brand meditated a moment.

"I'm going to change the makeup on that page," he decided. "Put this cut at the top of the page, so that when the papers are folded on the news-stands every one that passes by will see Bartelmy offering a bribe of $10,000 to suppress the truth about himself. Is your story all up yet?"

"Yes. It's in the form."

"Then go finish it off and send it down to the stereotyping room."

McHenry turned away.

"Won't this make the Patriot sick?" he said as he left. "They'd give the shirts off their backs to beat us on a story like this or to keep us from doing it to them."

As McHenry went out of the door into the composing room Sylvester Nolan dashed into Brand's room from the hall through the other door. The lad was plainly excited, his face showing an amount of animation that, for him, was a decided novelty. His eyes flashed and his breath came in short gasps, indicating that he had been hurrying.

"Where's my father, Mr. Brand? Where is he?" he gasped.

Brand suspected something of the Nolan son's errand.

"I'm afraid I'll have to find him," was the only information he chose to impart.

Young Nolan drew close to the desk at which the managing editor was working.

"Judge Bartelmy wants him," he exclaimed. "The judge, the judge! Don't you understand?"

"Does he?" asked Brand with utmost unconcern.

Sylvester grew impatient at his father's employee who dared assume indifference toward his father's only son.

"I want to know where he is," he demanded.

"Well, I can't tell you," Brand rose and stepped away, with Sylvester following him.

"I understand that you are going to publish something about the judge that's beyond the limit," said the son.

"Possibly."

"Well, this thing's gone far enough."

you print that picture of Judge Bartelmy and your paper's as good as dead," he threatened.

Brand smiled.

"Oh, we'll try to struggle on."

"The whole thing was a dirty piece of trickery, and we can prove it."

"Go ahead and prove it."

"We'll prove it was a faked picture," snarled the lawyer.

"What are you going to do?"

"Never mind what we'll do."

Dupuy now delivered the prize threat that he had saved for use in the last extremity, should it arise, and he was justified in assuming that it had arisen.

"A temporary injunction would certainly issue in a case like this," he said sternly. "I'll get one and close your shop."

"Sure! That's the thing! Get Bartelmy to issue one," suggested the managing editor sarcastically.

"I will and put a stop to your game! This muck raking mania is sweeping the country like a disease, breeding uncleanliness everywhere. Brand, this is your finish!" He shook his fist violently.

Brand jumped up in anger and strode toward the lawyer lobbyist.

"Now, you get out of here or I'll throw you out!" he announced hotly.

"You will, will you? You just wait!" Dupuy backed slowly out of the doorway.

Brand hastened out into the composing room.

"Mac, they're beginning to squirm already," he cried.

"We'll make them squirm more in the morning," responded the night editor significantly.

CHAPTER XIII.

BRAND, busily engaged in writing the caption for the cut that was to reveal Bartelmy in his true light, was interrupted once more—this time by the entrance of the greenish hued face of the poet reporter, Powell.

"You sent for me, sir?" asked the new scribe.

"So you've covered a suicide?" said Brand.

"Powwow!" eyes rolled wildly. He clasped his hands and his knees shook in his horror at what he had learned.

"Oh, yes—a terrible sight! I shall see-e-e-a-m of it, sir! It would take a Dante to write of it. Oh, I!"

"What was this girl's name?" asked Brand in matter of fact tones.

"Madeline."

"Madeline what?"

"Her last name," the poet asked eagerly. "I guess I don't remember. Oh, yes, it was Jenks—Madeline Jenks!" He spoke feverishly.

Brand picked up the poet's first newspaper story and began to read it in spite of the high pressure of events that night in the Advance office, in spite of his ever present fear that Bartelmy and Dupuy might in some way persuade Nolan to order the sensational bribery story killed, this many skilled young men found the time to bother with the fantastic young poet reporter and his fantastic first article.

"Madeline Jenks, eh?" commented Brand, turning over the pages. "Well, the first place you mention her name is on page 3."

He plucked off the first two pages snapped Sylvester. "In the absence of my father I forbid it. Do you hear?"

Brand took up a bundle of proofs and moved to the door.

"I'm afraid I can't take orders from you," he said, and he stepped calmly out into the composing room.

Sylvester, nonplused, looked about uncertainly for a moment. Then, with a sudden thought, he went to the telephone.

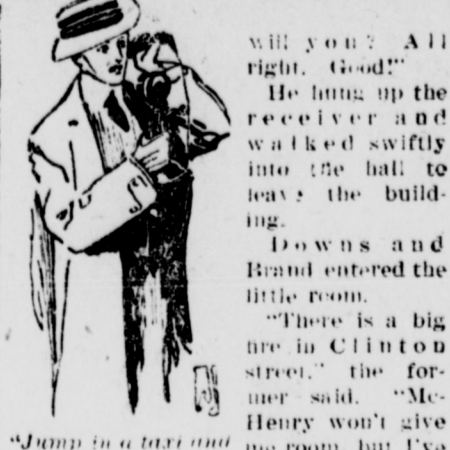

He placed the receiver at his ear.

"Hello! Hello! I'm Mr. Sylvester Nolan. Get me the house on the wire, please." An office boy entered. "What do you mean by trying to prevent me from coming up here?" asked young Nolan.

"My orders."

"You're discharged." The boy grinned amusedly and hurried out.

"Hello! Hello!" continued Sylvester at the telephone. "Is this you, mother? I want to speak to father. I'm at the Advance office. Hell's breaking loose here, and I want him to come down quick. Isn't he there? Where is he? Expecting him any minute? Oh! Jump in a taxi and come down."

"Jump in a taxi and come down."

"That's it. The good stuff always comes in bunches," said Brand, showing his disgust. "What else you got?"

"Your cub, Powell, just came in with a prose poem on a dance hall suicide."

"Let's see it." The managing editor looked at the story, smiling broadly as he did so. "Send him in."

The voice of Edward Dupuy was heard outside.

"Is Mr. Brand in there?"

"Here; you can't go in there," a voice was heard in warning, and Brand looked up.

"Oh, yes, I can," was the cool response, and Dupuy walked in. "Brand,

"Get out or I'll throw you out!"

and threw them on the floor. Powell winced painfully at the massacre of his first reportorial offspring. "Begin there," said Brand. Powell lunged downward to rescue his first two pages, but Brand kicked them away from him. "Where'd she live?" he next asked.

Powell clasped his hands and gazed plaintively at the ceiling.

"Over a chop suey cafe, sir."

"Number and street?"

"Two forty-three and a half West Pearl street."

Brand threw away two more pages, Powell watching him anxiously the while.

"Put that next. Here, Madeline Jenks," Brand began to write, "an inmate of 243½ West Pearl street. What did she do?"

"She destroyed herself utterly!" the new reporter wailed.

Brand went on writing.

"Is she dead?"

"Yes, sir."

"Shot and killed herself—when?"

"Tonight at 9 o'clock."

Brand wrote on.

"Last night at 9 o'clock. Why?"

Powell answered very intensely:

"Oh, she could no longer face the ghastliness of her existence. She knew she—"

"She was weary of life in the streets."

"I don't blame her," Brand commented to himself. He turned to Powell. "There's your story. Thirty words—you had 3,000. And remember the story of the creation was told in 600 words."

Powell picked up the pages of his story which Brand had discarded and walked dejectedly away.

"Mac," Brand ordered, "here's a dance hall suicide. Put it with local brevities, will you?"

Had Brand at this moment been able to see through the wall that separated the composing room from the hall he would have witnessed a sight that would have deprived him of some of the self possession that marked his present demeanor. A figure clad in an elaborate evening gown crept softly up the stairway, stood hesitantly at the landing and then turned into the managing editor's office. Judith Bartelmy probably never looked more beautiful in her life than she did that night. A flush of excitement enhanced the soft allurements of her exquisite features, and the low cut neck of her sleeveless gown completed a picture of feminine loveliness that, innocently enough on her part, was admirably adapted to the purpose Judge Bartelmy had in his unprincipled mind when he sent her to the Advance office. "You are my only hope," he had told her after Dupuy had at first failed to locate Nolan. "You must go and plead with Wheeler Brand or else I am ruined. Your father will be ruined absolutely." At the sight of her father's emotion and yielding to the fervent pleadings of her only living parent she had willingly consented to undertake the mission. Unpleasant though she knew it would be, she believed it her duty to stand by in his hour of dire need the father whom she loved, the father whom she did not know.

As she entered the office and paused in conjecture as to just how she would proceed she heard footsteps hurriedly ascending the stairs, and, withdrawing into a shadow in a corner, she saw Michael Nolan and Mrs. Nolan cross the hall and disappear into the composing room.

McHenry was speaking when they entered.

"There is your first page, Brand," he was saying, "and it sends Bartelmy to state prison."

The managing editor gazed approvingly at the appearance of the page of type and the cut in the form as it lay exposed on one of the stones under a shaded electric light. He looked up to congratulate McHenry on the manner in which he had completed the makeup of the page when his jaw suddenly fell. His eyes took on an amazed stare. He was looking straight over the night editor's shoulder. McHenry caught Brand's expression and whirled about. Then he, too, saw the owner of the Advance and his wife drawing near. The triumphant air with which the wife and mother sailed along by his side boded no good to Brand and his story.

Nolan paused in front of the form without looking at the contents at first.

"There is your first page, Brand," he was saying, "and it sends Bartelmy to state prison."

The managing editor gazed approvingly at the appearance of the page of type and the cut in the form as it lay exposed on one of the stones under a shaded electric light. He looked up to congratulate McHenry on the manner in which he had completed the makeup of the page when his jaw suddenly fell. His eyes took on an amazed stare. He was looking straight over the night editor's shoulder. McHenry caught Brand's expression and whirled about. Then he, too, saw the owner of the Advance and his wife drawing near. The triumphant air with which the wife and mother sailed along by his side boded no good to Brand and his story.

Nolan paused in front of the form without looking at the contents at first.

CRITTENDEN COUNTY COURT

Regular Term, 10th Day of January,
Nineteen Hundred and Ten

PRESENT AND PRESIDING
W. A. BLACKBURN, JUDGE.

On motion H. J. Myers, J. M. Moore and others in the matters of the application for vote on question of establishing a Graded School at Tolu, Ky., it appearing to the satisfaction of the Court that the boundaries of the said proposed Graded School District as set out in the petition filed at the November, 1909 Term of this Court, and as set forth in the order for said election by this court at its January Term 1910 are incorrect in that the boundaries therein given, take in territory of school districts other than that embraced in present boundaries of Tolu Common School District.

For Sprains
Sloan's Liniment is the best remedy for sprains and bruises. It quiets the pain at once, and can be applied to the tenderest part without hurting because it doesn't need to be rubbed—all you have to do is lay it on lightly. It is a powerful preparation and penetrates instantly—relieves any inflammation and congestion, and reduces the swelling.

Here's the Proof.
Mr. L. ROLAND, Bishop of Scranton, Pa. says:—"On the 7th of this present month, as I was leaving the building at noon for lunch, I slipped and fell, spraining my wrist. I returned in the afternoon, and at four o'clock I could not hold a pencil in my hand. I returned home later and purchased a bottle of and used it five or six times before I went to bed, and the next day I was able to go to work and use my hand as usual."

Sloan's Liniment is an excellent antiseptic and germ killer—heals cuts, burns, wounds and contusions, and will draw the poison from sting of poisonous insects.

Pursuant to the above and foregoing order I will on April 2nd, 1910, between the hours of 6 a. m. and 4 p. m., at the Public School building in Tolu, Ky., open a poll to take the sense of the legal white voters in said proposed Graded School District upon the proposition whether or not they will vote an annual tax

SAVED A SOLDIER'S LIFE.

Facing death from shot and shell in the civil war was more agreeable to J. A. Stone, of Kemp, Tex., than facing it from what doctors said was consumption. ## Pain in Heart

"For two years I had pain in my heart, back and left side. Could not draw a deep breath or lie on left side, and any little exertion would cause palpitation. Under advice I took Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy and Nerve. I took about thirteen bottles, am in better health than I ever was, and have gained 14 pounds."

MRS. LILLIE THOMAS,
Upper Sandusky, Ohio.

For many years Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy has been very successful in the treatment of heart troubles, because of its tonic effect upon the heart nerves and muscles. Even in severe cases of long standing it has frequently prolonged life for many years after doctors had given up all hope, as proven by thousands of letters we have received from grateful people.

Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy is sold by all druggists. If the first bottle fails to benefit, your druggist will return your money.

LETTER FROM MONTREAL QUEBEC.

Written by Roy Woody--Thank You Mr. Woody Write Us Again--Your Letters are Appreciated.

Montreal, Que., Feb. 21st, 1910.

Dear Editor:—

If I was a good writer, I might be able to write a very interesting letter for the paper I so often think of, nevertheless I shall exercise my best ability in doing so.

On the 12th day of January this year I boarded a fast train in New Orleans for Montreal, Que., being aware of the fact that it would be a great climatic change too, but I found it a much greater one than I expected however it was a pleasant trip, as I had provided for changes as the climate would require.

The first snow I saw to speak of was on the mountains of Eastern Kentucky, but since seeing some of this country I hardly know if it is to speak of or not. Anyway a person can travel over a great deal of North America and I doubt if they will see much prettier scenery than there is to be seen along the Queen and Crescent Route through Kentucky. Well speaking of snow, it did not interfere with speedy traveling until we left Detroit, Mich., for Montreal, in spite of the great plows attached, we were blocked for some 2 or 3 hours, after successfully ploughing through this we ran on into Montreal.

Here I found it only 15 degrees below zero and they said it wasn't cold but I thought different. I stayed one week in that great city visiting the sports carried on there and I think one of the greatest games I ever saw was played there "namely Hockey." I'll not try to describe the game definitely, but it was played on ice in a building, some 3,000 people witnessing same.

After my week there I bound myself for the old city of St. John, N. B., which is one of the oldest points in North America, here the tide rises to a greater height than anywhere. Crossing the bay of Fundy on a steamer, I experienced some real rough weather at sea, every old seaman dreads the Bay of Fundy. We landed at Digby, N. S., here I boarded a train for Yarmouth, N. S., the most southern point of the province. I got out of the Hotel at 9:30 and it was 10 o'clock before I attempted to go far, as the fog must have been as bad as it was when Washington crossed the Delaware.

Leaving Yarmouth on the Halifax South Western, winding around among bluffs of granite we finally arrived here (Halifax.) This place must be a city of holly and as I haven't seen any one wide awake enough yet to understand your first question, after "Beg your pardon" then question them plainly how for it is to some Pulp mill, they will say 10 minutes walk sir, allowance is made for climbing one hill and sliding down, for you sure won't walk down.

This is as far as I have gotten, but next month I travel Prince

CONVINCING PROOF

OF THE VIRTUE OF

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

What is the use of procrastinating in the face of such evidence as the following letters represent? If you are a sick woman or know one who is, what sensible reason have you for not giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial? For 30 years we have been publishing such testimonial letters as these—thousands of them—they are genuine and honest, too, every one of them.

Mrs. S. J. Barber says:

"I think Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the best medicine in the world for women—and I feel it my duty to let others know the good it has done for me. Three years ago I had a tumor which the doctor said would have to be removed by an operation or I could not live more than a year, or two, at most. I wrote Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for advice, and took 14 bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and today the tumor is gone and I am a perfectly well woman. I hope my testimonial will be of benefit to others."—Mrs. S. J. BARBER, Scott, N. Y.

Mrs. George May says:

"No one knows what I have suffered from female troubles, neuralgia, pains, and backache. My doctor said he could not give me anything to cure it. Through the advice of a friend I began to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and the pain soon disappeared. I continued its use and am now in perfect health. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been a God-send to me as I believe I should have been in my grave if it had not been for Mrs. Pinkham's advice and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. GEORGE MAY, 86 4th Ave., Paterson, N. J.

Mrs. E. F. Hayes says:

"I was under the doctor's treatment for a fibroid tumor. I suffered with pain, soreness, bloating, and could not walk or stand on my feet any length of time. I wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice, followed her directions and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Today I am a well woman, the tumor was expelled and my whole system strengthened. I advise all women who are afflicted with tumors or female troubles to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. E. F. HAYES, 1900 Washington St., Boston, Mass.

Mrs. W. K. Housh says:

"I have been completely cured of a severe female trouble by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and want to recommend it to all suffering women."—Mrs. W. K. HOUSH, 7 Eastview Ave., Cincinnati, Ohio.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

Good News

"I write to tell you the good news that Cardui has helped me so much and I think it is just worth its weight in gold," writes Mrs. Maryan Marshall, of Woodstock, Ga. "I do hope and trust that ladies who are suffering as I did, will take Cardui, for it has been a God's blessing to me, and will certainly help every lady who is suffering."

Take CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

No matter if you suffer from headache, backache pains in arms, shoulders and legs, dragging-down feelings, etc., or if you feel tired, weary, worn-out and generally miserable—Cardui will help you. It has helped thousands of other weak, sick ladies and if you will only give it a trial, you will be thankful ever after.

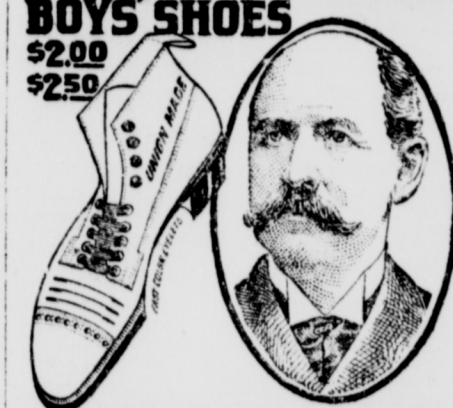

Edward Island and in July will give Newfoundland a trial but without the presence of Peary I shall not go further I would say Cook but I am afraid I couldn't find him. Hoping this will find all the readers feeling fine and to those who wish a saw I will kindly advise them to buy a Simond.

Respectfully,
Roy H. Woody.

SELF EXAMINATION.

Examine yourself was what I heard the minister say the other day in his sermon, as I was awakening from my wondrings in dream land by a vigorous shake from my wife and as I began to get my best eye open to my surroundings and get my bearings I started a vigorous pumping of my thinker to open the pours of the skin to start the perspiration of a self examination.

For a starting point I am now 41 years old and I have spent 35 years of that playing tag with the hind wheels of hard luck and disappointment, with the hard luck part getting the last tag. I have been blest with a tamed conscience and I have it under such good control that it does not give me any trouble unless I do a piece of work for some one and I present my bill and he pays it off and does not make any kick and then my conscience hurts me so bad for not charging him another hundred cents that it takes them several days to get over it and just about the time they are healed up, my wife tells me that stove wood is out they take a relaps as I realize that my financial ability is not strong enough to make the wood man think I could pay for two loads of wood as well as one.

But under the circumstance of small cords and the greenness of his wood we can hardly blame the poor fellow for his loss of confidence in his fellow man. As I have never been stung by a political bee or sent to Congress by my party with the interest of my people in my heart and the promise of loyalty on my lips or to have the fingers of a president of some meat trust tangled in my hair with a bunch of boodle shoved in my face big enough to ease my conscience and cover up the little sin of turning traitor to my promise of loyalty to my friends.

Now just when I had gotten this far in my job of self examination, I heard the preacher say something about the blind leading the blind they would both fall in the ditch. Knowing that my wife's eyes was of the best especially on some occasions that this blind business did not concern me but on the second thought, I remembered a little experience I had of this kind, I asked one of my best friends what he thought of a piece I had written for our paper and he said it sounded to him like the croakings of a damfool while I did not say anything but I just thought well old fellow we got over that ditch together without falling in, but I will try the next one by myself.

So after taking down a few more notes on myself examination and finding that my financial ability is not as great as my spending, so after making a rough calculation and finding that I owe about as many as I don't owe; I think I am running about even with the world and then the preacher called for us to rise and receive the benediction.

By L. E. Vick.
